2024 - Issue 1

Dear IAEG Member,

2024 is proving to be another exciting year for IAEG fueled by new work groups, new members, and a total eclipse at our Spring Face-to-Face in Dallas, Texas.

IAEG's growth is evident in expansion within current Work Groups (WG) with a new PFAS sub-team in WG 1 and scope change for WG's 9 & 11 to extend a robust process for environmental and chemical regulations into sustainability based regulations. Additionally new workgroups are engaged on Life Cycle Assessments, 100% Paraffinic SAF Compatibility Collaboration, and Circular Economy and WG 11 continues to advance its ESG engagement.

The Fall 2024 Face-to-Face in Madrid, Spain in just a few days will carry the momentum forward and will result in great work by all. Also, IAEG Vision for 2025 and beyond will be revealed!

The Communications Committee has been adding additional flair to our external posts to further our online presence. This summer, interns from across Lockheed Martin, Airbus, Boeing, and Collins Aerospace (RTX) collaborated to reimagine IAEG resources through the new Take Off Resource Hub. With a new scalable repository of 179+ public resources across all work groups, the team developed a visualization layer that would allow for a tailored view of resources based on various perspectives within the value chain (refer to Exhibit A). Take Off is equipped with fresh tools and strategies to engage our supply chains and small medium enterprises. For example, this extension of IAEG will enable the capability for suppliers to have a profile on the Take Off platform to discover new resources aligned to their interest areas.

Exhibit A: Reflection of the diverse set of key stakeholders the IAEG resources are intended to support.

The result of the team's efforts will be evident in website enhancements planned for next year, taking IAEG to new heights. "Providing early career professionals an impactful project every year unlocks innovative solutions and ensures they see potential career paths within the Aerospace & Defense industry. This year, the team exceeded expectations and left us inspired." (Ashley Rubinsky, Sr. Manager at Lockheed Martin and IAEG WG 11 Co-Lead).

"Collaborating with interns across the Aerospace & Defense industry has highlighted the value in leveraging a diverse team to drive and impact in the global value chain. Engaging with seasoned experts at IAEG has deepened my understanding of the industry's growing environmental, social and governance efforts. Navigating a project within a broader industry association has encourage me to embrace challenges and strengthen my professional skills. I am grateful for this opportunity and IAEG's commitment to empowering the next generation of professionals, helping to cultivate a more sustainable future." Jennifer Stambouljian, Supply Chain Intern at Lockheed Martin and 2024 IAEG Intern Project Lead).
